Haringey Advertiser despite the strike

NINE journalists of this newspaper who are members of the National Union of Journalists are on strike for a second week so this is the second edition produced by the remainder of the staff and management.

The dispute is about the paper's non-replacement of staff leaving by natural wastage in this recession despite the company making huge and unsustainable losses

This independent group is the only UK newspaper group to have decided right from the beginning of the downturn not to make any journalists redundant for as long as possible.

That meant non-replacement of those who left voluntarily.

Thousands of newspapermen have lost their jobs but none from this paper nor group.

We hope this edition is both local and acceptable to you, our readers.

A SPECIAL REPORT just released shows how Haringey Council continued to spend hundreds of thousands of pounds of taxpayers' money on consultants without adequate or in many cases any checks on spending, performance or contracts.

The report compiled by Deloitte, which was considered at the Council's Audit Committee on 19th April 2011, shows that a proper business case for spending on consultants existed for only half of the test cases, half were engaged without a proper contract, only one in ten cases showed any evidence that the Council were monitoring expenditure and in no cases were there any checks on performance.

Liberal Democrats have criticised the lack of control by the Labour Council on its spending and have called for a commitment that this situation is rectified with all existing consultants and all future contracts.

Last month Haringey Liberal Democrats uncovered that since October, when the Council was aware of the scale of the reduction of government grant, it continued to spend £4,800 a day on consultants.

Cllr Robert Gorrie, Haringey Liberal Democrat Leader and Finance Spokesperson, comments:

"At a time when the Labour Council is choosing to close many essential services it is simply unacceptable that so much local taxpayers' money is being spent in such a reckless fashion without proper controls or even basic performance management.

"This lack of control and potentially profligate spending is entirely symptomatic of a Labour administration who have overspent last years budget by millions and are trying to blame anything but themselves for the problem."

A new free primary school for Haringey?

Parents and carers in Haringey are being asked whether they would be interested in sending their child to a free primary school set up and run by the Constable Educational Trust (CET). It follows widespread reports of a London-wide shortage of primary provision.

CET is looking for a suitable site in London to open a brand new, state-funded primary Free School and has targeted Haringey as an area where there is a demand for additional primary places. They are asking parents to sign up to say whether they would be interested in a CET primary school opening in their area in September 2012.

The new CET primary would be mainstream and would support high academic attainment and progress. However drawing on substantial experience, the school would also ensure there was early identification and intervention where children showed problems with learning.

Children would be taught the National Curriculum as well as modern foreign and creative subjects.

CET has 17 years of experience in setting up and running an independent school in South West London. As a parent, board member Ronda Fogel has personal experience of setting up The Moat School in Fulham, for children with dyslexia and other special needs.

Parents with children who will be aged four between 1 September 2011 and 31 August 2012 are being asked to visit the CET website www.cetrust.net to register interest. This does not mean that parents have signed up to or registered for a new school. CET Chairman Richard Simmons said: "I would encourage anyone who is interested in increasing the options for their child to register. We have a huge amount of experience in opening and running a highly successful school and can use that experience to enhance the educational choices on offer in Haringey."

OAPS urged to speak up

As part of the campaign to save Haringey's older people's day centres, drop-in centres and luncheon clubs, Liberal Democrats have met with elderly residents at Woodside House.

Lynne Featherstone MP and Cllr David Winskill met with users of Woodside luncheon club at a consultation meeting organised by the Council who are planning to close the services to save £171,000 next year.

The Liberal Democrat representatives urged all users to respond to the ongoing consultation, explaining in their own words how the closure will affect their lives.

Many of the elderly people present expressed worries about becoming socially isolated, not getting a hot meal each day, and the loss of the treasured footcare service, should the club close.

Local residents who want to support the Liberal Democrat campaign against the closure can sign the petition at <http://bit.ly/Save-OlderPeoplesServices> and visit <http://www.haringey.gov.uk/index/haringey-snap-survey>.

Lynne Featherstone MP comments: "It's outrageous that so many elderly residents will suffer to save such a small amount."

Honey, hive picked up a peoples' prize

SPRING sunshine greeted people and bees at the opening of the 'Bee Plot' at the Alexandra Palace Allotments.

The Haringey Teaching Apiary (HTA) is one of the winners of the peoples' vote at the Muswell Hill Area Assembly, supported by the Liberal Democrat councillors of the four wards in the area, and as a result received a grant enabling the project to purchase a shed, hives and bee suits.

Currently, there are two hives, with bees already highly active gathering nectar and pollen and helping pollinate the many fruit trees that are in bloom at the moment.

As Chair of the Assembly, once the project had been chosen, Councillor Gail Engert provided strong support, making sure it had the attention of all those who were needed to bring it into being. Councillor Gail Engert, Muswell Hill Area Assembly Chair, comments: "This is a wonderful ecological initiative, which will be a marvellous resource for all ages, and a long-lived benefit to the community."

Councillor Bob Hare added: "Bees are the quiet workers in everyone's gardens, so as allotment plot-holders we've been delighted to provide a home for the apiary project at Ally Pally."

Dr Fred Clark, principle founder of the Haringey Teaching Apiary, added: "HTA has an important role to play in the environmental management necessary for our future."

Haringey blind explore food in ten-week cooking course

FORTY blind and partially-sighted Londoners are set to learn new cooking skills thanks to a TV chef and the Royal London Society for Blind People.

Courses will start in the first week of May when the visually-impaired men and women from the boroughs of Kensington and Chelsea, Southwark, and Haringey will take part in a ten-week long course, which is designed to promote healthy eating and explore some of many different foods from the capital's diverse communities.

Leading the sessions will be Junior Masterchef finalist chef

Andy Farrow, who is himself partially-sighted. Andy, who learned his trade from Raymond Blanc, has cooked for everyone from celebrities to royalty. His career has included catering for the Prince of Wales as well as VE Day commemorations at Buckingham Palace.

Andy Farrow says: "Far too many blind people eat junk food because it's easy. You don't need to see to heat up a frozen pizza. But with a bit of practice you can do so much more."

Maxine Turkington, from the group Tips4Vips, will also be on hand to give hints and tips on how cooking aids and enablers can make life easier and safer in the kitchen for the visually impaired.

Sessions will involve trainees bringing in their favourite recipes from home. A nutritionist will then discuss alternative ingredients, promoting healthier eating and lifestyles.

A key element of the project will be visits to ethnic food shops, enabling participants to plan trips to places where they can buy a diverse range of fresh foods.

The climax of the courses will be the publication of an audio or Braille cookery book of each group's recipes.

Nursery gets the seal of approval for school trips

The Wolves Lane Horticultural Nursery in Wood Green has been given the official seal of approval as a venue for school visits.

It has been awarded a Learning Outside the Classroom quality badge which assures that pupils will be given a high quality education experience.

Last year around 2,000 pupils visited the complex to learn more about plants, animals, habitats and sustainability.

Pupils are given an introduction to the centre, visit the various parts of the centre, including the rain forest area and the Palm House. They are then able to handle creatures such as corn snakes, stick insects and millipedes.

Cllr Dilek Dogus, Cabinet Member for Adults and Community Services, said: "The Wolves Lane Nursery is a great centre for learning for both pupils and families."

"It provides valuable lessons about a range of environmental issues."

There will also be an open day at the centre on May 21 from 9am to 5pm.

It is also a chance for people to find out about the opportunities for training, volunteering and activities at the centre.

Tennis club nets a cool £45,000

COOLHURST Lawn Tennis Club in Haringey has been awarded £45,000 by the London Marathon to help build a new sports centre at its ground in Crouch End.

The award was made as part of the London Marathon Charitable Trust's record pay-out to sports and recreation facilities in the capital.

The Haringey club was just one of the 59 projects in 25 local authority areas in and around London to win grants from the London Marathon charity.

More than £5.3 million was distributed from the record surplus made by the race last year, with grants ranging from between £1,852 to £235,000.

The organisation also set aside a further £1 million towards its commitment to support community legacy facilities after the London 2012 Olympics.

The largest single award was a contribution towards the construction of new changing and community sports facilities in Victoria Park, Tower Hamlets.

Other large grants include £215,000 to upgrade the athletics track and run-ups at the Lee Valley Athletics Centre in Enfield; £190,000 to redevelop Haggerston Baths in Hackney; and £150,000 to Samuel Montague Youth Centre to replace an old floodlit playing area with a new full-size multi-sports pitch.

In addition, the Dudley Winterbottom Memorial Hall in Hackleton, Northamptonshire, near the site of the adidas Silverstone Half Marathon, received £80,000 to build a new two-storey annexe.

Numerous smaller grants were also made, such as £7,500 for new gym equipment at St John's Church Hall at the Hanlon Centre in Enfield.

Haringey cleaner and greener says councillor

Cllr Nilgun Canver and Veolia's Pascal Hauret, launching the partnership with members of the street cleansing team.

HARINGEY will be one of the cleanest, greenest boroughs in London, says Haringey's Cabinet Member for Neighbourhoods, Cllr Nilgun Canver.

At the launch of the new waste contract won by Veolia Environmental Services and attended by Veolia's London Municipal Operations Director, Pascal Hauret, Cllr Canver said the new contract was a really smart, positive step for the borough.

"Veolia has already begun working in Haringey and, putting any teething troubles aside, we will see many benefits for our borough.

"We will increase recycling, tackle fly-tipping and sweep every residential street on average twice a week, working six days a week. Busy roads will be swept more frequently.

"This partnership with Veolia is a very good deal for Haringey, for the environment and for the council tax payer."

Pascal Hauret says: "Mobilising a contract of this size is always a significant task. Apart from isolated necessary adjustments, we feel that the contract has started well and we look forward to developing our partnership with Haringey over the next 14 years.

"We have already received lots of positive feedback during the first week of the service and we hope to continue to deliver excellent services that all the borough's residents can benefit from."

...but park users to petition against Veolia takeover move

Bruce Castle Park users have discovered that the council plans to close their on-site park depot and instead allow Veolia to use the building as a base for their street cleaning team.

There has been no public consultation on this closure, despite the park staff being vital in keeping the Green Flag park up to standard, and looking after the historic gardens around Haringey's only museum.

Local park users have formed the Bruce Castle Park Action Group and set up a petition to urge the Council to halt the plans until there has been proper public consultation. They are considering taking direct action if their concerns are not addressed. As well as concerns over the upkeep of the new playground, paddling pool and flower beds, they are worried that anti-social behaviour, including alcohol abuse and unruly dogs, will escalate without the regular presence of dedicated on-site staff.

Dan McQuillan, a local parent and park user, said: "I'm very worried about having no staff based in the park.

"We've finally got new play equipment installed, but without staff on site there's no-one to keep an eye on things.

"My kids love the paddling pool – but there will be no-one to clean it out and fill it every day. And if there are no gardeners who will care for the flower beds around the museum? We need staff in the park.

Bruce Castle Park is an example of what is happening elsewhere in the borough – park users in Stationers Park and Chestnuts Park have also expressed anger after hearing of the threats to close their depots.

In fact, many of the borough's depots are under threat, and the Council are also planning to axe a third of the borough's vital gardeners.

The Haringey Friends of Parks Forum are supporting the Bruce Castle Park campaign and have written to the Head of Recreation Services with their objections.

The Friends Forum secretary wrote that local Friends Groups 'are very disturbed' about these sudden developments, over which they have not been consulted, and which go against the Council's agreed 'parkforce' policies of increasing the on-site staffing in all significant parks and green spaces.

There is a concern amongst residents that Veolia moving in may be an attempt at backdoor privatisation of the parks cleansing teams, causing a further fragmentation to the borough's dangerously dwindling parks staffing.

Former pupils wanted as role models

WOODSIDE High School is working with Future First to build a network of former students to support current pupils and recent graduates of the school as they make life-changing decisions about their futures. Former students will be profiled on a website that Future First is building for Woodside High School.

They can also take part in assemblies and workshops at the college to share their experiences of the world of work. Future

First is looking to recruit former Woodside students from a wide range of jobs – from dancers to surgeons, builders to architects – so that there are role models to inspire all pupils and to celebrate the incredible diversity of success at Woodside High School.

On board so far they have a barrister, broadcaster, teacher and a youth worker.

Hornsey train shed plan comes under fire

Housing officers go back to school – for a purpose

NEW PLANS to build a 278 metre long and 11 metre high train shed in Hornsey have come under fire from local residents and Liberal Democrats after formal plans were submitted to the Council last week.

Liberal Democrats are concerned that the consultation on the controversial development by the Council will be during an extended holiday period, giving residents limited time to respond and will “minimise scrutiny”.

The proposals put forward by Network Rail are similar to those stopped by an Article Four notice in 2009.

The length of the facility, to repair and maintain trains, has been reduced by 2m in length, 2m in height and will span three tracks, rather than six as put forward two years ago.

Local residents living close to the proposed train shed continue to voice their concerns about the lack of measures to protect nearby homes from the impact of the development. However, despite best efforts by local people and residents’ groups, who have tried to work with Network Rail, their concerns seem to

A SPECIAL book to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the opening of Alexandra Park Library has been published.

The book - 50 Years of Memories – has been written by Angela Arney, the chair of the friends’ group at the library.

Angela has edited a collection of over 40 memories from people who have used the library over the last 50 years and includes archive photographs of the library. There is also a short history and chronology of the library as well as drawings by children.

Angela said: “I started work on the book two years ago. Among the memories are a man in his 80s who remembers the area where the library now is, being used for Dig For Britain during the war, right through to someone who has just moved to the area.” The book costs £7.

have been mostly ignored. Local Liberal Democrats have written to the Secretary of State for Transport to ask that he ensures Network Rail takes local concerns seriously.

Cllr Robert Gorrie (Hornsey) and Leader of Haringey Liberal Democrats said: “This is the worst time for consultation on a major development like this. We are slap bang in the middle of the school Easter break. Either this is a ploy by the applicant to minimise scrutiny or a simply another cock-up in this sorry saga.

“I am concerned that despite the controversy surrounding the latest proposals, the Council seem to be nonplussed about ensuring that locals have the opportunity to have their say.

“The Council haven’t even confirmed whether these proposals will have a full public hearing or if the decision will be taken behind closed doors by planning officials.

“Local residents’ groups have tried to work with Network Rail on this development but there is little evidence that any of their fears about the noise, traffic and disruption caused by the train shed have been properly addressed.

“I have written to the Minister for Transport to ask that residents are heard.”

Locals are concerned that Network Rail are:

- 1 Not changing the design of the building
- 1 Not providing screening along the whole length of the development
- 1 Not providing noise barriers
- 1 Not restricting on-site construction or operation.
- 1 Not widening the pavement under the railway bridge
- 1 Not introducing traffic calming measures
- 1 Not replacing metal palisade fencing along the boundary in NRV
- 1 Not providing junction improvements at the Turnpike Lane/Wightman Road junction
- 1 Not funding parking restrictions

HARINGEY Council housing officers have been going back to school – to help families with their accommodation problems.

They’ve been holding housing surgeries in local primary schools – giving parents the chance to find out more about the housing options available to them.

The information sessions by the Temporary Accommodation and Housing Advice and Options teams along with a benefits adviser from Children and Young People Services have covered a variety of topics, including:

- 1 The new banding system for social housing
- 1 Possible impacts of housing benefit cuts on social housing
- 1 Overcrowding
- 1 Registering for social housing
- 1 Private rental options

Cabinet Member for Housing, Cllr John Bevan, said:

“These sessions have been very popular with local residents, with hundreds of parents and carers attending during the year.

“We set these surgeries up so that it was as easy as possible for people to get all of the information they need about housing possibilities.

“They help residents make well-informed decisions about their future and have enabled some parents to make more realistic housing choices.”

The sessions were held at St Paul’s & All Hallows, Lordship Lane, Earls- ham, Alexandra, Ferry Lane, Nightingale, St Francis de Sales, St Michaels CE, Bounds Green and St Pauls Primary Schools, and Noel Park and Stonecroft Children’s Centres.

More sessions have been lined up for the next school term.

For more information about social housing go to: www.haringey.gov.uk/housing

One woman which the team helped had been evicted and made homeless because of housing benefit problems.

She attended one of the school sessions and the issues over her housing benefit were resolved. She was then advised on how to apply for a home using the Home Finder scheme and quickly found a new property.

Spurs snatch a draw on a dramatic night at White Hart Lane

By Dominique Stafford

TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR staged a stirring fightback to overhaul a two-goal deficit and secure a 3-3 draw in a dramatic north London derby against Arsenal at White Hart Lane.

Spurs were attempting to complete a first league double over their great rivals in 18 years following an equally remarkable encounter at the Emirates earlier in the campaign, but they looked set to end last Tuesday's match empty handed when they fell 3-1 behind in the first half.

However, Tom Huddlestone crucially reduced their deficit shortly before the interval and a Rafael van der Vaart penalty – his second goal of the game – after the break ensured that the match ended up all square.

"It was a great game to be involved in," said Spurs manager Harry Redknapp. "We had two teams playing unbelievable football. We couldn't live with them early on with their passing ability, which was breathtaking, but we stuck in there and stayed with them and got an equaliser.

"It looked over at 3-1, but it was an amazing performance from us. We've both got attacking flair and go for it.

"It's what football is all about – you don't want to see teams sit back and play for 0-0."

In truth, although Spurs were naturally thrilled by their fightback, the result was of little use to either side – with Arsenal seeing their fast-fading title hopes suffering another blow while the hosts failed to take the opportunity to move level on points with Manchester City in the race for fourth place.

The Gunners struck first in just the fifth minute, Theo Walcott latching on to Cesc Fabregas' defence-splitting pass and racing clear before calmly slotting past keeper Heurelho Gomes.

But the lead did not last for long as Tottenham got back on level terms within two minutes as van der Vaart fired home an unstoppable shot which flew inside keeper Wojciech Szczesny's near post.

There was no let up in the action and Arsenal went back ahead on 12 minutes through a low 20-yard shot from Samir Nasri.

It came as no surprise when another goal did arrive on 41 minutes – and it was the visitors who got it.

Robin van Persie met Walcott's perfectly placed chip with a header which was brilliantly clawed away by Gomes, but the striker reacted quickest to rebound and smashed the ball into the roof of the net.

The match appeared to be slipping from Tottenham's grasp at this stage, but they were given renewed hope three minutes later when Huddlestone scored with a bullet of a shot on the half-volley from 25 yards out.

The hosts carried the momentum from this goal into the second half, and Szczesny did well to turn away a van der Vaart shot at full stretch.

Arsenal still looked threatening on the break, but Spurs were largely controlling the game and were rewarded with a penalty on 70 minutes when Aaron Lennon was sent tumbling in the box by Szczesny. Van der Vaart made no mistake from the spot.

Szczesny denied Luka Modric soon after and went on to make further smart saves to thwart Peter Crouch and Sandro, but Arsenal also pressed for a winner and Gomes had to be at his best to turn behind a low Fabregas shot from the edge of the box.

The decisive goal would not come for either side, and there can be little doubt that a draw was a fair result on a night to remember at the Lane.

Tottenham's saviour Rafael van der Vaart's double helped Spurs snatch a point

REDKNAPP: IT'S STILL POSSIBLE

By Dominique Stafford

HARRY REDKNAPP insists that his stuttering Tottenham Hotspur side does still have a genuine chance of qualifying for the Champions League this season.

Saturday saw Spurs held to a disappointing 2-2 draw at home to West Bromwich Albion to leave them with just one win in their past ten matches in all competitions.

The result means that they are four points adrift of fourth-placed Manchester City ahead of this weekend's daunting trip to reigning champions Chelsea, but manager Redknapp remains upbeat about their chances of overhauling big-spending City.

"It's going to be difficult, but it's still all to play for," he said. "I think there is nothing between City and Tottenham."

"This is the closest we have ever got to Arsenal and Chelsea. I think we can compete with the top clubs every year. There is a championship in this club, not just a Champions League place."

"I find it hard that now everyone expects us to be in the Champions League. Tottenham had never been in it before this season and suddenly it's like we have to be in it. Manchester City have spent God knows what to get above us."

"It's been a great season, but it's not over yet."

Saturday's match proved to be a memorable one for Jermain Defoe as he scored what proved to be both his 100th Premier League goal and his 100th goal for Tottenham, but he admitted that the result took some of the gloss off of his achievement.

"It was good, but to get the three points would have been even better," he said. "It was a relief to get to 100 because it has been on my mind a lot to be honest."

"We are good enough to play in the Champions League, as we have shown this season, so it would be a massive blow if we don't qualify again."

"When you look at the quality in the dressing and even the players who weren't involved in this match, they are all top players."

Keeping the faith: Harry Redknapp still feels Spurs can come fourth

Skolars just fail in their bid for a first league win

THE London Skolars wasted a golden chance to record their first win of the season in rugby league's Co-Operative Championship One on Monday when they were forced to settle for a 32-32 draw from their home match against fellow strugglers Gateshead Thunder.

The Skolars, who endured an agonising 20-18 defeat at South Wales Scorpions on Friday, had looked set for a comprehensive triumph when they opened up a 26-6 lead by half-time.

But Gateshead stormed back by scoring 26 unanswered points to take the lead, and the hosts needed a late Gareth Honor try – converted by Jack Latus – to enable them to escape with a draw.

Friday's match in Wales proved to be keenly contested throughout, with no points being scored in the opening 30 minutes.

However, the Scorpions grabbed two tries late in the first half and added a third shortly after the interval to seemingly take control of the contest.

The Skolars hit back well through a Dave McMeeken try and, although the hosts scored again, further tries from Austen Aggrey and Cariern Clement-Pascall left them just two points adrift heading into the closing stages of the match.

And the visitors almost snatched victory at the death – only for Aggrey to see the ball slip from his grasp on the line.

The London Skolars are without a match this weekend.
